

Peter: The Redemption/ Joseph and Mary

Overview:

Two extraordinary and inspirational Biblical tales are retold in the exhilarating feature films, Peter: The Redemption and Joseph and Mary, with all star casts including Kevin Sorbo, Stephen Baldwin and John Rhys-Davis.

Peter: The Redemption

A servant of Christ, a mad ruler, and a soldier of Rome – to save his people is a choice between life or salvation

An inspiring Biblical story of love, courage, and unwavering faith, brought to life on the screen with stars John Rhys-Davis (Lord of the Rings) and Stephen Baldwin (The Usual Suspects).

The Emperor Nero (Baldwin) has imprisoned the Apostle Peter (Rhys-Davis) and, attempting to gain a confession from him, has tortured him close to death. Nero orders Susanna, a servant of his wife, to keep him alive. During her visits to the prison, Susanna develops a relationship with Martinian, a Roman soldier. Influenced by both his feelings for Susanna and the stories of Peter, Martinian comes to realise that it is not the Christians who are the criminals, but rather his own Emperor.

This poignant story of redemption, featuring a powerhouse appearance from Baldwin as Nero, pitted against cinema veteran Rhys-Davis's Peter, with up and coming star Stephen Byers as the torn guard Martinian, is lavish and unforgettable, in the best tradition of Hollywood epics.

Joseph and Mary

Hunted by soldiers, he will lead his people and deliver his father's message... and save us all

A rousing retelling of the great Biblical story, starring Kevin Sorbo (Hercules) as Joseph, set in the years before Jesus became the man that ultimately changed the course of humanity forever.

The devout Rabbi Elijah has sworn to avenge the deaths of two innocents slaughtered by King Herod the Great; but when Elijah meets a Joseph, Mary and their young son Jesus, the beliefs fuelling his revenge are put into question. Should he kill, or should he choose forgiveness, contradicting every scripture upheld by Elijah's forefathers?

Stunningly filmed in breath-taking locations, and with a masterful performance from the brilliant Kevin Sorbo, Joseph and Mary is a stirring and extraordinary testament to the power of compassion, and love.
